

Lviv Polytechnic National University has well-deserved recognition in the realm of Ukrainian education, science and technology obtained for more than its two hundred years of history.

An integral symbol of the educational establishment as well as the formation and development of technical and architectural academic learning is the edifice of the main building. The façade of the building is featured in historical armory as well as in the contemporary official graphics.

The erection of this building in 1874—1877 was closely connected with the reformation of the then Technical Academy by giving it the status of a higher school of European technical education and getting a new name — “Higher Polytechnic School” (Technische Hochschule).

The main building of Lviv Polytechnic evokes great architectural and artistic admiration thanks to its beauty and magnificence. Even the walls themselves seem to be steeped in history. Here worked and studied prominent personalities that made invaluable contribution to the world science and engineering. More than one generation of polytechnicians is grateful to the author of the main building that is the professor of architecture of Lviv Polytechnic Julian Zachariewicz for the design of such wonderful edifice.

It is our duty to keep and magnify the glory and achievements of many generations of employees and students. Lviv Polytechnic is always open to exciting projects, initiatives and the creation of new professional opportunities for young people.
